QUINTESSENCE

The memories of our experiences together
Will slowly fade,
For they are little fires that time will subdue.
Little things, once important, will slip away
And become lost or clouded
By new experiences.

And this is as it should be,
For, if we are to progress,
Things past must give way
To things present and future.
But what of things past?
Are they not too dear to allow them to escape?
Is a way of life to be forgotten and lost?

Our experiences together will slowly fade in our memories,
But their impressions will last,
And therein lies their value,
For it is of these that we are made.

Dedication

Standing on the threshold of all that lies ahead, we look back to acknowledge the hub of our educational world, PAUL W. COOPER. His sound judgment and careful direction have guided us in our search for maturity.

With ever-increasing gratitude, we the Senior Class of '56 dedicate our edition of the YRAC to our deserving principal.

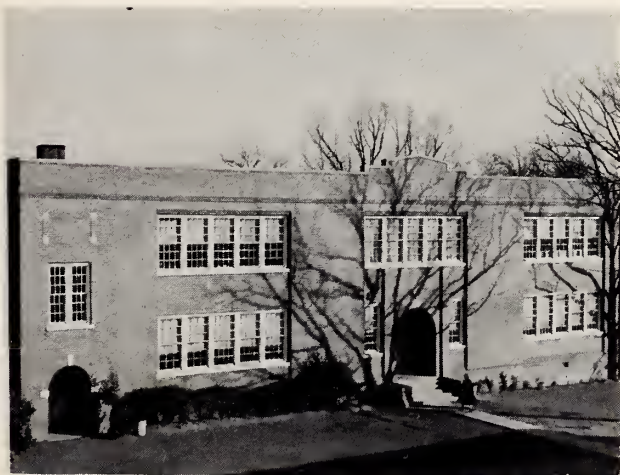

Peggy:
We appreciate you for so many reasons. Your fine spirit of loyalty, service and cooperation has been wonderful. We're glad you will be with us next year. May your success continue!

CLASS HISTORY

The day had finally arrived! At last we were in high school! As that day in September rolled around, one hundred and two eager, somewhat apprehensive students filed into the auditorium to receive instructions concerning their first days as high school students. Could we believe our ears? Was Mr. Cooper recognizing us—and with our official title—Freshmen—too! My, how important we felt, standing there being surveyed by those dignified upperclassmen. Here was just the beginning of a gratifying experience—one which would forever leave its mark upon our lives—our lives as men and women—for that day marked the ending of our childhood.

Those first days—weeks—were rather difficult, but under the able guidance of Mr. Dunham, Mrs. Jordan, Miss Lamm, and Mrs. Lorenz, we were able to conform to this new manner of living and advance toward the culmination of our transfiguration.

The following year, the name "Sophomores" appealed to us even more and we worked indefatigably to live up to the expectations of Mr. Terrell, Mr. Burt, and Mrs. Glass, who were our advisers in the second step toward our goal. It was indeed a good year—excepting perhaps biology, which, we must admit, is advantageous to us. Slowly, slowly we were becoming more mature.

Another day in September came and those same students, now seventy-nine in number—some of our old students having left us and some new faces having been added—now much more serious and more dependable—marched into that same auditorium at Cary High School. Under the leadership of Mrs. McLeod, Mrs. Booker, and Miss Rice we rallied together, raising money for a heretofore unsurpassed Junior-Senior Prom and Banquet and presenting a successful play entitled "Home Sweet Homicide." Could this year be drawing to a close? How differently we surveyed life now!

Seniors now, and numbering eighty-three, we were faced with the almost insurmountable tasks of publishing an annual and financing a trip to New York. However, with the guidance of two great and inspiring ladies, Mrs. Lorenz and Mrs. Marley we were able to complete these tasks successfully. Then came graduation and the completion of our high school career.

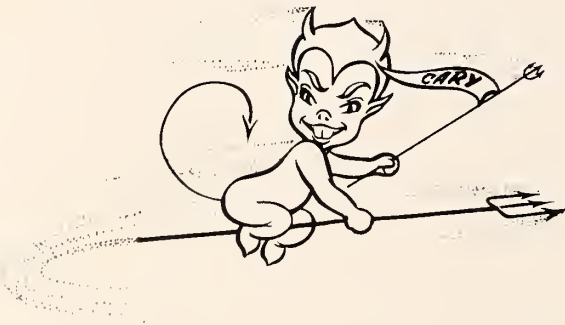

Was it possible that in so short a time we, who had been mere children four years ago, had become responsible young adults, ready to face the world squarely and without fear?

Leave then these halls with faith and hope and love . . .

Our best we'll do with help from God above.

SUE JOHNSON

Class Historian

Dear Little Lark,

It has been very pleasing knowing you ~~since~~
since the 8th grade. we have had lots of fun.
at the level games - in class & going to the beach.
I don't know ~~what~~ why I started this page. I don't know what to say.

Remember all the trouble we got in when we were in the eighth grade - we gave Mr. Moody a lot of --- we didn't do much in the ninth grade.
we didn't have any classes together.

I am glad you & Becky got together and to know each other - we all had lots of fun on the beach trip - we have to now after. The next time go we'll have to find that all can I am glad you & Floyd got back grad times. I think you two make a great couple. I hope we can have or meet from next year or can have part in the part - it has been real nice knowing you and being able to carry on with you and do.

Love
Lee - John.

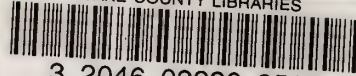

Dear Peggy,

well we have just one more year together but haven't we really had a fine time past 11. I think the junior year has certainly been great having money and everything else. Peggy has always been a great sister and a great first stay the "first" was you and you will stay for her in this world. I hope you will always have the best in life because no one could do better than you.
Love always,
Betty
